THE TAFFETA CAPE

The success of the week, writes a Paris correspondent, has been the taffeta cape. Not the cape in cloth or in satin, but in the new soft silk of excellent quality that we call taffeta, but that has, in reality, very little in common with the silk of that name known to our ancestors.

The cape has a crossed piece in front resembling a waistcoat that gives to this fashionable cloak something of armth. The back, or cape proper, has high rolled collar and falls in many leats some distance down the skirt. It is trimmed with two flounces and is

This muslin makes the prettiest of toilettes with a pleated skirt in plain material, and the overdress printed with large bouquets in the new colorings, which signify shades of all description that have no connection with the flowers they represent. Sometimes these muslins are in blue, sometimes in black, and sometimes in mole, but invariably the colorings in the flowers are "rich and rare."

FINISHING TOUCHES

While tailors use pique for complet-ing gowns and coats, dressmakers pre-fer sheerest lingerie effects for finish-ing walking or home dresses. ABOUT FOURTH OF JULY.

My Dear Girls and Boys:

Pretty soon the Fourth of July will come walking into our summer with all the fun and pleasure that a national holiday gives to boys and girls, but I am writing you again, as I did last year, please to make it a "safe and sane" day. I am so afraid that some of my boys and girls will blow their faces as high as the sky, or burn their hands and arms to a crisp with firecrackers, because the papers all over the country are filled every July with the horrible accidents that happen to children on this celebration. Won't you try and have a happy day without maining or killing yourself? I know that the boys could get up perfectly grand baseball games or go fishing, and the girls always love plenics, and then in the evening there will surely be some sort of isplay of fireworks by the city, and you can go and see them.

Interesting Letter.

Dear Editor,—Great was my surprise and joy Sunday to see that we have at last succeeded in securing another page! We ought even to congratulate ourselves. Honest, now, ought we not? That gives every one a chance. Those disappointed ones Sunday are appeased Monday, or any other week day, to see their work in the morning paper. And, by the way, I am much obliged to you for printing "I wish" in Monday's paper. I suppose I'll have to tell you some more about baseball—that is, all I know nowadays. I am catching for the Billikins, of the West End League. We are top, as you may see by Sunday's paper. Ever read "The Two Gunmen"? It's ripping—quite ripping with bullets some times. The here is not an Easterner, well-tanned, clean-limbed young man, before whose level gaze the swarthy Mexican slowly lowers his gun, but a true Westerner, in straight Western life. Neither is it made up of stage Indians, who grunt stoically and drink firewater when they are stringing glass heads for the tourist trade; or of professional bad men, who shoot up dance hells for fun and practice; but a good, interesting story. I have not received my prize I won last May. Inclosed please find "The Awakening of the Flowers," which I think is one of my best poems so far, Wishing you and all the best of wishes, I am, as ever.

You'd scarcely expect this of a boy, but here is what happened:
It was the last half of the ninth, and the Indians were one run behind. With that gameness that has characterized their play this season, they worked a runner around and tied the score. Then the battle for the winning run began. An Indian walked and stole second. One was out, and a hit would win the game.

Up in the stand sat mother, father and young son. Mother and father had their eyes riveted on the man at bat, casting an occasional glance at the runner on second, to be sure he wasn't caught napping. The boy's mind seemed suddenly to leave the game, and, just when the excitement was tensest, he turned to his mother and said:

To Improve Expression As Well As Complexion

No face is really beautiful that lacks expression. Do you realize that continual use of powders and creums tends to spoil pilancy of skin and elasticity of expression? Why not quit cosmetles, use something better, which won't clog the pores or make the skin dry, pasty or oily? Ordinary mercolized wax acts quite differently from any cosmetic. It wonderfully improves any complexion, giving it life and expression. By gradually, harmlessly pecling off the thin well of surface skin, it brings to view a pure, soft, spotless complexion, delicately beautiful and youthful. Every druggist has this wax; it is seliom more than an ounce is needed. It is spread on nightly like cold cream and washed off mornings. In a week or two the transformation is complete.

Wrinkles do not, of course, enhance the expression. Neither do the pasty things many use to eradicate them. A treatment free from all objection is made by dissolving 1 oz, powdered saxolite in 15 pint witch hazel; use as a wash tolton. This soon removes even the most obstinate wrinkles.—

FACE BROKE OUT

Spread All Up in Hair. Would Scratch Face and Tear Pieces Out. Ear Almost Came Off. One Cake Cuticura Soap and One Box Cuticura Ointment Cured.

Barterville, Ky .- "When our little girl was three months old her face broke out in little white blisters. They spread all up in her hair and behind he ear and she would scratch ber face and tear pieces out of it. The blood would run off her face and her ear almost came off. She was - fretful when she awoke. "We used ——— and a wash but they did not do any good. We heard of Cuticura Scap and Cintment and tried a sample and it began to heal so we got some from the druggist. We would wash the child's face with Cuticura Soap and water and then put on the Cuticura Ointment. After we had used one cake of Cuticurs Soap and one box of Cuticurs Ointment the eczema was cured."
